PREFACE

Our symbol, like our name, is THE CHRONICLE. It is a historical account of your life at Danville Junior College.

This phase of your life will never be forgotten. The staff wishes that this book will become a part of your past. For the first time we have given you a colored picture of Danville Junior College, hoping that this picture will make the time spent here clearer and more meaningful to you. It was not a final step but a beginning.

Here you became interested in the life around you. Here your search for higher education began. A search that will be for a better life, a better education, and a better you.

The administrators and the teachers want you to grow in skill. So we present to you this illuminated manuscript, THE CHRONICLE, in the hopes you may find future memories.

DEDICATION
Donald C. Whitmill

We dedicate our 1969 CHRONICLE to Mr. Donald C. Whitmill, Vice President during the 1967 and 1968 School years. His administrative leadership contributed much to the progress of the College.

President Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Whitmill, and Mr. and Mrs. Britton at the faculty Christmas dinner, 1967.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN SESSION

Danville Junior College students gratefully recognize the multitude of efforts the Board of Trustees have expended in making an education possible for D.J.C. students. At work in a board meeting are Mr. Russell L. Guin; Mr. Benson M. Jewell; Mr. Ralph J. Swanson; Mrs. Vivian Schultz, Executive Secretary; Mr. Elmer E. Smith, President of the Board; Mr. Donald R. Dunlap, Vice President of the Board; Miss Mary Miller, President of Danville Junior College. Not pictured are Mr. Thomas W. Conron, Jr. and Mr. J. Cole Morton.

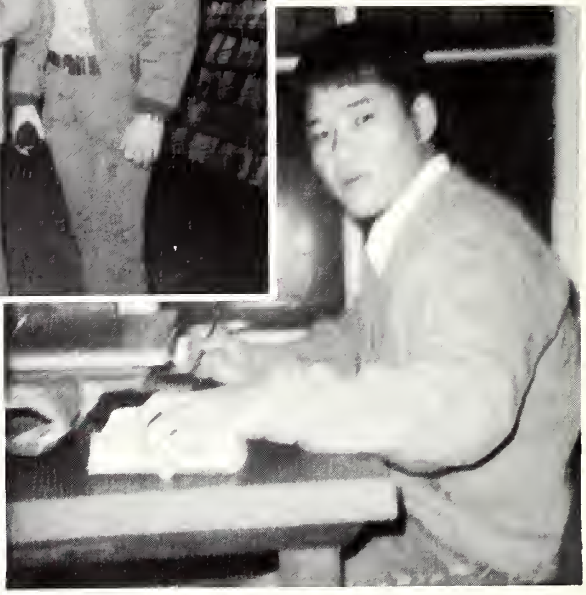
DANVILLE JUNIOR COLLEGE ADMINISTRATOR WITNESSES APOLLO 8 LAUNCH

Mr. James C. Sandilos, Director of Instruction at Danville Junior College, was present at the launching of Apollo 8 that carried astronauts to man's first orbiting of the moon. Mr. Sandilos is Vice President of the National Aerospace Education Council and chairman of its committee on junior college and university aviation and aerospace programs. Three miles from the launch pad at Cape Kennedy, Mr. Sandilos was one of a 48-member group of educators who watched Astronauts Borman, Lovell, and Anders blasted off into their historic moon-trip.



FROM FOREIGN SHORES

D.J.C. students from all over the globe include Evangelas Zervoulias, Greece; Ata Abbed, Jordan; Francisco Mendez, Guatemala; Margaret Pratt, Sierra Leone; Kuko Inoue and Shoji Okabe, Japan; Patrick and Michael Malynn, South Africa.

TO FOREIGN SHORES

D.J.C. students who studied in Europe last summer include Mary Snyder, Debbie Cunningham, Carol Gerdausky, Bart Doney, Bill Cunningham, Jim Jordan, and Alan McDonald.
